

I believe, This has to go through as for the implementation of Fire Rescue Vic, to benefit the newer urban growth areas, due to increased risks due to population growth. As I live in a Volunteer area (150 kms outside Melb ) I see the result of the impact between the country areas and the urban areas, Indeed I've been a CFA volunteer myself and I can see the need for an up grade to a newer approach to the way we need to progress with our fire services and the boundries that need to be increased to support the efficient suppression of fire and other safety services to the community
