Question Asked:

In terms of the VFF, does it have any data on how many farmers have applied for these concessional loans? You know, it is a big topic. And if you have, how many have been successful, how many have been knocked back?

Response:

As noted by the VFF President during the public hearing, the VFF does not hold data on the number of farmers who have applied for concessional loans.

The VFF recommends to the Committee that it seeks this information from Agriculture Victoria and Rural Finance.
