

Education is the proven method of raising awareness and improving reasoning and therefore there should be much better driver training from an earlier age with the costs paid by taxes that would otherwise go into ludicrous projects that Vic Roads receive funding for. People at age 16 should be able to begin learning about driving at school. Lessons from 17 should be a contracted deal and no driving test able to be taken without that having been undertaken. Once a test is passed then a series of higher level driver training should have to be undertaken to get off Ps.

Freight trucks need to be kept off all roads except freeways. Hubs should be used for much smaller local delivery trucks. truck driver need to have extensive training and yearly ongoing retraining.

Roads need to be maintained as required and not left to the whims of budget constraints.

Vic Roads and Regional Roads Victoria needs to be taken from a pseudo private state, shaken up and reinvented and fully controlled by government - projects like the barrier project put to public consensus first as these type of projects are money drains and misguided.

Gillian Williamson

[REDACTED]

[REDACTED]