I absolutely disagree with this idea. As a parent of two primary school aged children, I feel safe that they travel on the bus service provided for them. If this was opened to the public, I would no longer feel safe with them travelling by bus. Given that myself and my husband both work, we are unable to pick them up from school. Our kids walk from the bus stop to our home alone and are often home on their own for a short period of time until we get home. I would hate the thought of someone on the bus getting off at the same spot to suss out which kids are on their own. Having a daughter who often is alone without her brother, this actually scares me! Keep the buses as they are so parents feel safe for their children.
