YOUR SUBMISSION

Submission:

I have found the use of Cannabis to be very helpful for reducing my anxiety, allowing me to work through part issues, and actually also for helping me be more productive and achieve my goals (I know this is the opposite to public opinion that Cannabis makes people lazy, but this has been my experience). I also have mild Tourette's syndrome, and have really found it majorly help my symptoms. I have also found it significantly help in my dealing with back and shoulder pain.

Do you have any additional comments or suggestions?:

I have, in the past, used alcohol and opiate based pain killers to attempt to help my back and shoulder pain from working extensive hours at a computer (I'm an Automation system programmer and software developer), however I have found those to both have negative affects on my mental health. However I have found Cannabis to not only help the pain, but also make me more productive and handle my pain and mood better.
