I was an independent candidate.

I have no complaint about the conduct of the election.

However (if it is within your terms of reference) the committee might consider two points about the provisions of the Electoral Act relating to authorising electoral material.

1. Email addresses are now ubiquitous. Perhaps they might suffice instead of the name and street address of the person authorising the material.
2. Regulations under the Act might be useful to stipulate the size of the font and its prominence on electoral material. Grey on black in microscopic lettering is far from legible
