SUBMISSION CONTENT:

--

This submission is to give my personal account of how I feel I have been vilified because of my gender, by threatening and derogatory language online.

I have been witness to gender-based hatred online, and believe, if not already a part of the bill, should be added. I outline one particular individual in point 7 of the Terms of Reference added to this submission.

7) Any evidence of increasing vilification and hate conduct in Victoria;

Clementine Ford is an Australian journalist and online presence/personality, with a sizable following on various social media platforms.

Unfortunately, in the past, Ms Ford has made inflammatory and derogatory opinions/statements online aimed solely at men and boys, that have been belittling, threatening and negative to the point of hatred.

Below is a snapshot of her online statements:

Via Twitter:

"Kill all men and Kill them again"

"Men are gross and also rapists. Kill all men"

"@DailyLifeAu so glad another man is dead. #killallmen"

8) Possible extension of protections or expansion of protection to classes of people not currently protected under the existing Act;

If not already a consideration, could you please add gender to the vilification protection framework?
