MENTAL HEALTH PORTFOLIO

1. Please indicate whether the trial rollout of the NDIS in the Barwon region has left people without access to services for mental health and whether less funding has been available for community mental health services as a result of the trial rollout. If so, please indicate the reasons for this and whether this is relation to the way that Victoria (compared to other jurisdictions) has used NDIS funds.

All existing clients of state-funded community mental health support services continue to receive support whether or not they have become National Disability Insurance Scheme (the Scheme) participants.

Under the Scheme trial, new clients gain access to community mental health services through the Scheme. These arrangements are being closely monitored to ensure that there are no gaps in service access.

There has been no reduction in funding allocated to community mental health support services as a result of the Barwon trial.
