Dear Ms Blandthorn and the SARC ,

I am writing to you as my human rights are being compromised with the intended No Jab No Play policy. I am a mother to three boys and I have significant concerns with the current vaccination schedule. After watching reactions in my eldest child that were disregarded by my GP I began researching vaccination. As a result of this scrutiny, my husband and I chose not to vaccinate our subsequent children opting for homeopathic immunisation instead. This is my right as a parent. The government do not own our bodies and this policy is manipulative and coercive.

If the No Jab No Pay and No Jab No Play policy goes ahead, I will be forced to leave my job as I will no longer be able to afford childcare. Others will be forced to vaccinate their children (against their will) in order to keep their jobs. This is not informed consent and this is illegal. To impose this legislation breaches Australian Informed Consent Laws and the Australian Constitution which guarantees Australians political, medical and religious freedom.

Yours sincerely,
Kara Kovacs
