The Honorable A.J. Hunt, M.L.C.,
Minister for Local Government,
VICTORIA

Dear Mr. Minister,

The Committee is pleased to present as requested its report on the matters contained in the Terms of Reference.

You will appreciate that this report represents a consensus of a rather large committee of some divergent views and as such is the result of many hours of consideration and debate.

From time to time it has been necessary for all members of the Committee to accept a compromise but in so doing we have endeavoured to retain the more important aspects of each other's opinion.

Without a complete change in the basis of revenue for Local Government needs to which we do not subscribe at this time the limited recommendations we have made suggest that the present system whilst not ideal is capable of a fair and reasonable operation.

Yours faithfully,

1. Any inequities in the distribution of rating burdens as between rural and urban ratepayers.

2. The nature and extent of any inequities that arise for rural ratepayers by reason of;
 - (a) actual or prospective urban or other development which affects rural valuations; and
 - (b) actual or prospective zonings, reservations and planning provisions affecting non urban property.

3. The extent to which the discretionary power to apply a lower "farm rate" and "urban farm rate";
 - (a) is being utilised, and
 - (b) is capable of being satisfactorily utilised, to take account of relative needs and capacities to pay of rural and urban communities, and to achieve equity between them.

4. The legislative and administrative measures recommended to increase equity in the distribution of rating burdens as between rural and urban ratepayers.

The Minister for Local Government has appointed a committee to inquire into and report upon matters specified in the Terms of Reference set out below.

Organizations and persons interested in the matters to be exercised at this Enquiry are invited to submit their views to the Committee. Submissions should be initially in writing and forwarded to reach the Secretary no later than May 9, 1977.

Advice as to the procedure to be followed in the submission of such material will be given on application to the Secretary.

The Terms of Reference of the Enquiry are as follows

To inquire into and report upon:-

1. Any inequities in the distribution of rating burdens as between rural and urban ratepayers.
2. The nature and extent of any inequities that arise for rural ratepayers by reason of;
 - (a) actual or prospective urban or other development which affects rural valuations; and
 - (b) actual or prospective zonings, reservations and planning provisions affecting non urban property.
3. The extent to which the discretionary power to apply a lower "farm rate" and "urban farm rate";
 - (a) is being utilised, and
 - (b) is capable of being satisfactorily utilised, to take account of relative needs and capacities to pay of rural and urban communities and to achieve equity between them.
4. The legislative and administrative measures recommended to increase equity in the distribution of rating burdens as between rural and urban ratepayers.

The Chairman further directed a letter be sent to all municipalities in the State setting out the Terms of Reference together with the make up of the Committee and suggesting that the municipalities give the matter local publicity.

The response to the invitation reflects the difficulties sections of the rural community are experiencing in meeting rating commitments. The 205 submissions (see appendix 1) were received from rural areas throughout the State. A majority were formal documents of length received from individuals, municipalities and interested organizations. Others were letters from ratepayers putting personal problems and difficulties to the Committee.

In order that the contents of all submissions both personal and formal be thoroughly assessed it was decided that three sub-committees be formed under the direction of the Chairman. These sub-committees comprised:

Mr. W.R. Featherston and Mr. P.B. Ronald
 Mr. W.C.S. Ellis and Mr. L.J. Howarth
 Mr. K.C. Marriott and Dr. I.R. Wills

Members of the Committee were provided with copies of all submissions received by the Secretary. A random third of the submissions were allocated to each sub-committee for critical evaluation.

Each sub-committee produced abstracts of the submissions which they had evaluated and these were circulated to all members for consideration and review.

During the following months the issues as raised in the submissions were debated in their relation to the Terms of Reference prior to decisions being made.

To assist it in its work the Committee met with Mr. D.V. Moye, Chairman, and Messrs. S.L. Cooper and F.S. Bales, Members of the Victoria Grants Commission and Mr. L. Birch, Chief Valuer of the Valuer General's Office.

A C K N O W L E D G E M E N T S

As may be seen from Appendix 1 many people on and off the land made a personal effort to tell the Committee of the problems that faced themselves and their communities. The Committee wishes to thank them for their effort and help.

The Committee also wishes to acknowledge with thanks the high quality of the formal submissions sent to the Enquiry.

Further, the Committee wishes to express its thanks to the Chairman and Members of the Victoria Grants Commission and to the Valuer-General and his Chief Valuer for the assistance given by themselves and their organizations.

CHAPTER 1P R E A M B L E

- 1.1 At the outset of the Enquiry the Committee realised that one fundamental reason for its establishment was the depressed rural economy and the resulting submissions from the affected sections of the rural community indicated the problem of paying rates often in increasing amounts from reducing incomes (appendix 2). Investigations show that this problem and many others put to the Enquiry have been dealt with by earlier enquiries into Local Government, its financing, and rating. Many of the same problems again appear in the report of the "Joint Study into Local Government Finances Australia and New Zealand" and in the papers delivered to the seminar on Differential Rating sponsored by that group in Adelaide during November last year. Repeatedly the deliberations of these other bodies were concerned with similar problems and whilst the Committee adopted a positive approach it must be recognised that there was an underlying feeling that much had been done before with limited results.
- 1.2 Although the Terms of Reference were in general clear enough for the Committee to proceed, the depth and diversity of the problems caused considerable discussion within the Committee as to the relevance of much of the submitted material. Some material dealt with items which more directly concerned all ratepayers rather than inequities as between the urban and rural sectors. Rateability of Government property, Crown Lands and the like was one such item which the Committee decided was not within its reference.

- 1.3 The very delicate problem of shifting the rate burden, even if only as to part, from one sector of the community on to another was obviously appreciated by many of the correspondents. Whilst perhaps not primarily to overcome this problem the Committee noted the large number of suggestions that greater allocations from income tax revenue be made to Local Government. Again the Committee considered this matter to be outside its reference but because of the persistent comments it did obtain certain statistics from the Australian Bureau of Statistics which indicate a trend along the lines desired but not at the rate required to relieve the onerous responsibility of the ratepayer to provide substantial revenue for local purposes (see appendix 3).
- 1.4 From statistics supplied by the Victoria Grants Commission (appendix 4) the Committee observed, but without making a detailed study, interesting facts concerning the very high percentage of "all other" rural municipalities' funds expended on roads - an average over the last three years of 50.73% and the relatively low percentages spent on Recreation and Culture 7.6%, Education, Health and Welfare 4.73% and Other Housing and Community Activities 2.7%. These statistics indicate that service to property is still a major part of the Councils' responsibility and not services to the individual as indicated in many submissions.
- 1.5 Numbers of submissions supported a mandatory farm rate at a fixed percentage of the general rate. Even if the final decision was left to councils, say within a range of between 40%-60% of the general rate, the suggestion is believed to be unrealistic. Rate burdens already vary markedly dependent upon the locality and the basis of rating, i.e. site value or net annual value.

- 1.6 Metropolitan fringe municipalities in particular, have experienced considerable community divisiveness over the level of rating on farm lands. Conflicts attributable to variations in land usage, planning scheme objectives and market demands have contributed to the problems in these areas, and the absence of a visible formula establishing the farm rate level has placed councillors and administrations under pressure to justify decisions that have been reached under the provisions of the Local Government Act.
- 1.7 Whilst the Committee felt it could not support the introduction of a mandatory farm rate level, it does recognise that many councils experience difficulty in determining the level of the farm rate, especially where the shifting of the rate burden may impose hardship on the small township ratepayers within the municipality.
- 1.8 Many submissions directed attention to the apparent inadequacy of the definition of farm land. The Committee was aware of the problems of administration which often result in appeals being made against the failure of the council to classify farm land. Considerable time was spent examining the present definition and considered amongst others were such proposals as the minimum size for viability and the possibility of using income tax criteria to establish the use of the property for business or industry. Because of the extreme difficulty in arriving at any definition which would be operational and equitable to all parties, the Committee came to the conclusion that any changes it may recommend would have problems and none of the changes would avoid the administrative complications that often ensue from a definition.

- 1.9 Problems associated with property-based rates are not confined to Victoria. The Committee studied the Valuer General's "General Review of Rating Systems", dated 28 February, 1977 which dealt with the experience of overseas and interstate rating authorities. In the U.S.A. where property rates are comparatively "very high", special laws have been developed by a number of the States designed to protect the family income mainly, by giving relief at the state level. However, it must be remembered that where these "circuit breaker" laws operate to safeguard against an "overload" of local government rates, the relevant local authorities are required to finance a much wider field of government services than is the case in Victoria.

1.10 Most forms of relief including Victoria's Rate Relief Act 1977 have merit but relief for some ratepayers means additional costs and maybe hardship for others.

CHAPTER 2

REFERENCE 1. - "To inquire into and report upon any inequities in the distribution of rating burdens between rural and urban ratepayers".

2.1 There were approximately thirty separate matters referred to in the submissions. The Committee considered that the following five main items required special attention as they appeared more frequently in the correspondence.

2.2 Ability to pay
The present legislation is generally adequate to deal with inequities which arise under this heading.

2.3 User of services should pay
The user pays principle was agreed to be valid but limited in its scope.

2.4 Property value rating system
The present system of taxing on land values has its imperfections but the Committee is of the opinion there is no better system for the purpose of collecting municipal revenue.

2.5 Valuations
Major inequities can arise due to the infrequency of valuations. A system of valuing for rating purposes based on concepts other than market value at highest and best use, such as productivity or current use value, is not capable of an objective test and therefore is not supported.

- 13 -

2.6 Council representation

The lack of rural representation on councils which could result in inequities was considered to be a difficult matter to correct. It was noted that this problem is closely associated with all democratically elected bodies, however adequate representation of the views of all groups can be achieved by education and understanding.

CHAPTER 3

REFERENCE 2. - "To inquire into and report upon the nature and extent of any inequities that arise for rural ratepayers by reason of:-

- (a) actual or prospective urban or other development which affects rural valuations; and
- (b) actual or prospective zonings, reservations and planning provisions affecting non urban property."

3.1 The intrusion of urban dwellers anxious to avail themselves of a country environment and the proximity of urban development increase the valuation of the surrounding farm lands.

3.2 Rating can become a burden where the owner because of a reservation or planning provision is restricted in his ability to earn income or dispose of the property.

CHAPTER 4

REFERENCE 3. - "To inquire into and report upon the extent to which the discretionary power to apply a lower "farm rate" and "urban farm rate":-

- (a) is being utilised, and
- (b) is capable of being satisfactorily utilised, to take account of relative needs and capacities to pay of rural and urban communities, and to achieve equity between them."

- 4.1 From an examination of the statistics supplied by the Valuer-General (appendix 5) the Committee was unable to determine any consistent approach to the use of the farm rate and urban farm rate by Councils. Reference to appendix 6 shows that of 211 municipalities 51 use a farm rate, 10 use an urban farm rate and 9 use both. Quite a number only give a token reduction from the general rate. This indicates a limited use of these rates. (For incidence of farm rate and urban farm rate refer to appendix 4.1 and map.)
- 4.2 A farm rate should be implemented wherever possible but it is difficult to utilise satisfactorily due to
1. the lack of effect in predominantly rural areas.
 2. the problem of determining the property which is to be defined as a farm.
- 4.3 There is occasion for more municipalities than do so at present to apply the urban farm rate provisions of the Local Government Act.

CHAPTER 5

REFERENCE 4. - "The legislative and administrative measures recommended to increase equity in the distribution of rating burdens as between rural and urban ratepayers."

5.1 All the legislative measures and recommendations suggested by correspondents were considered and compared with the Committee's final recommendations. This ensured a careful reassessment by the Committee of the opinions presented to it.

5.2 The Committee's legislative and administrative recommendations are contained in Chapter 6.

CHAPTER 6R E C O M M E N D A T I O N S

Preliminary

6.1 In endeavouring to arrive at a conclusion from which it could make recommendations, the Committee almost invariably found itself in some difficulty because of two major factors -

1. Great differences which exist between farm lands in urban fringe areas, particularly around Melbourne, and farm lands in rural areas.
2. The quite different results which some recommendations produced when applied to the two bases of rating - site value and net annual value.

Reference 1

6.2 More frequent up-dating of valuations in some form is necessary. On equity grounds alone the Committee prefers complete revaluations but, having regard to cost, suggests it may be necessary to have a form of indexation based on sales evidence of properties in groups which will be applied to properties in similar groups throughout the municipality. Such adjustments should be made between each complete revaluation, and be subject to appeal by ratepayers.

6.3 It is important that ratepayers should be provided with a simple non-technical explanation of rating and valuation and that they be given assistance to understand their rights and the procedure necessary to ensure them. Communication between ratepayers and valuers should be improved.

It is recommended that the municipality, at the time the rate notice is issued, send an information sheet giving advice to the ratepayer on the following matters:-

- (i) Method of determining rate.
- (ii) Valuations.
 - (a) general system;
 - (b) method adopted by the municipality;
 - (c) method of arriving at the valuation;
 - (d) grounds for objection and the procedure to be followed with emphasis on the discussion of grievances with the valuer in the first instance.
- (iii) Breakdown of municipal expenditure.

6.4 The appeals procedure under the Valuation of Land Act should provide a simple, cheap and informal review of valuations.

The Committee accepts the present procedure and suggests that an additional form of hearing be provided by means of an option to the present Boards of Review which would allow the ratepayer to present his objection to a valuer-arbitrator.

It is recommended that a procedure be adopted along the lines of the Small Claims Tribunal from which there is no appeal, professional advocates are excluded and costs are not awarded (see appendix 7).

6.5 If the council proposes to declare a minimum rate it should have regard to the total amount required to be raised by way of rates to meet the cost of administration and servicing the municipality and also have regard to the number of rateable properties. Where the net annual value system is in operation provision should be made for different minimum rates to apply for vacant land and residential properties. Where the site value system is used the establishment of adequate minimum rates becomes essential if equity within the rating structure is to be maintained.

Reference 2

- 6.6 Amendments to existing legislation are recommended to provide that where a valuer in computing a valuation of farm land uses sales evidence other than that of comparable farm land it would be mandatory for him to submit a list of such first mentioned farm land to the Council which may declare land so listed as urban farm land.
- 6.7 Any rural land which is restricted in its use by zonings, reservations and planning purposes should be subject to revaluation, within twelve months of the gazettal of the relevant order.

Reference 3

- 6.8 If a farm rate is to be used the process of classifying the land should be formulated and introduced into legislation to establish uniformity. A standard form for application for a farm rate should be used throughout the State.

6.9 The system of rating based upon net annual value appears on analysis to deserve the support of rural municipalities as the evidence produced to the Committee indicates that those municipalities adopting the site value system require a greater reduction in the general rate to arrive at a farm rate which appears equitable (appendix 8). Further, as net annual value better reflects the total value of the rateable property than site value, the Committee believes that net annual value is superior on equity grounds. However, the Committee believes that the net annual value system also leaves much to be desired particularly in rural areas where there appears to be little evidence of rental values of farms. By statute the net annual value of farm land is fixed as an arbitrary percentage of the capital improved value. Presently the percentage is five and because it is unreal in the current economic conditions it is an unnecessary complication and tends to further depreciate the rating and valuation system. The Committee considers that it is beyond its mandate to investigate at length a system based on capital improved value but it does recommend further investigation by others of this method as it appears to have advantages for the equitable rating of properties in rural districts.

- 21 -

6.10 To encourage the declaration of a farm rate in all appropriate municipalities it would be desirable to separate for rating purposes the farm residence with curtilage from the broad acres. The Committee believes the application of a farm rate under the aforementioned conditions would assist in establishing good relationships between rural and urban ratepayers provided the levels of rating are carefully selected.

CHAPTER 7

COMMENTS ON RECOMMENDATIONS

7.1 Comments on 6.2

The Committee subscribes to the view that the system of rating on land value to raise some revenue for Local Government is the basis for an equitable distribution of the rating burden, provided the base value is as up to date as can reasonably be achieved. It does not consider the present system in which valuations can be up to seven years old as an equitable basis.

7.2 Comments on 6.3

There would be much less friction and problems if the communication between all parties in the Local Government sphere were improved.

7.3 Comments on 6.4

There is always reticence on the part of the average ratepayer to embark upon an appeal, but because of the time involved in the appeal process the Committee considers the rural ratepayer much less inclined to proceed even to the enquiry stage.

7.4 Comments on 6.5

The Committee is not in favour of a very high minimum rate which upsets the equitable distribution of the rating burden and undermines the property value rating system, however a minimum rate in the order of $10-15 has little or no regard to current economic conditions.

7.5 Comments on 6.6

The Committee considers the proposed definition will be wide enough to include all the items in the present definition and will also assist the farmer who has had his farm valued on the basis of sales of hobby farms or the like. It also believes that the council will be more likely to consider taking action if schedules prepared by the valuer are regularly submitted. The Committee was concerned at the designation of the land as "urban" whereas the proposed definition will include land not close to urban development. However, as it is anticipated that most of the properties declared urban farm land will be in close proximity to urban development, the word "urban" should be retained.

7.6 Comments on 6.7

Many submissions made reference to rateable property partly used for farming but prevented from extension of farm use because of conservation or landscape interest zoning.

7.7 Comments on 6.8

As indicated earlier in the report, the Committee was unable to produce a better definition of farm land. It believes that a standard form of application to be issued by all municipalities would avoid differences between municipalities and assist in determining the guide lines for the classification of farm land.

7.8 Comments on 6.9

Insofar as the declaration of a farm rate is concerned the Committee believes that even if all municipalities were on a net annual value (or capital improved value) system it may still be desirable to have a farm rate.

7.9 Comments on 6.10

Any reduction in total rates on account of farm use should not apply to the farm residence.

1. The present procedure would apply up to the provision for the statutory meeting between the Valuer and the objector.
2. If still dissatisfied the objector be given an option to go to a Valuer-Arbitrator.
3. When lodging his appeal the objector would elect to which Tribunal he wishes to go; Valuer-Arbitrator, Land Valuation Board of Review or Supreme Court.
4. The Valuer-Arbitrator would be a member of the panel of the Land Valuation Boards of Review. The Valuer-Arbitrator's responsibility would be to review the valuation in the light of the evidence presented to him by both parties, any relevant sales evidence and any further investigation he thinks necessary.
5. The proceedings of the Valuer-Arbitrator to be informal but subject to the Rules of Natural Justice.
6. An appellant may object without reason to a particular Valuer-Arbitrator hearing his appeal but if he does he will be required to go to the Land Valuation Boards of Review.
7. Proceedings before a Valuer-Arbitrator to be final.
8. Proceedings before a Valuer-Arbitrator be closed to professional advocates save the municipal valuer for the time being.

9. No costs to be awarded under any circumstances against either party.

10. The Valuer-Arbitrator, if he thinks necessary, may refer the matter to a Land Valuation Board of Review at any stage of the hearing.
